We will soon begin preparing a new Local Development Plan for your area – the West Highland and Islands Local Development Plan (WHILDP). We want people living, working and investing in the area to work alongside us in preparing this Plan that will look up to 20 years ahead. At this first stage – known as the Call for Sites & Ideas – we want your ideas on the sites in your community that would be suitable for development and the areas that should be protected. We also want to know the top priorities for you, your community group or business.

The Call for Sites & Ideas runs until the end of March 2015 and we encourage everyone to give us their views. Visit www.highland.gov.uk/whildp or search “WHILDP” to find out more and submit your comments. In doing so, you will be helping to prepare a document called a Main Issues Report which will be published later in 2015.

Which sites might be suitable for new housing?

Where could new businesses be located?

Where are the most valuable areas of open space?

What else needs to change in your community?
