

What can you do in ELC?

Entry Criteria

(SSSC registration for all posts)

You need 3 years qualified experience to become a Childcare manager, and to be working towards a management qualification required by SSSC.

You can become a Senior EYP after gaining ELC experience and the relevant qualifications.

You can get a job as an EYP1 without a qualification, but you must work towards achieving this qualification. Once you have it, you can move to EYP2.

You can get a job as a support worker without any relevant qualifications, as long as you work towards them in a few years.

Roles

Childcare Managers have lead responsibility for the delivery of high quality, flexible Early Learning and Childcare, including staff management.

As a Senior EYP you'll be tasked with the development, management and quality assurance of the nursery.

Early Years Practitioners are responsible for identifying and meeting the care, support and learning needs of every child.

Support Workers are entry level and a great way to get some experience. You'll undertake activities with children to give them positive and fun learning experiences.
