Introduction

A high level of attendance at work is essential to the effective functioning of the Board, to the maintenance of its strategic values, and particularly to the provision of quality services. To secure such attendance requires commitment from managers, employees and trade unions.

Aims

High absence rates are costly, disruptive; reduce morale and lower service standards. A policy on the management of attendance is essential to secure both high levels of attendance, and a consistent, fair and reasonable approach towards staff.

Principles

- Elected Members, managers, employees and trade unions are committed to working in partnership to support a highly engaged and healthy workforce committed to attaining high attendance levels
- All partners are committed to the maintenance of the health, safety and wellbeing of staff and the promotion of occupational health
- All partners are committed to the aim of maximising attendance at work
- The Assessor, managers and supervisors are accountable for the management of attendance in a fair and consistent way
- It is the responsibility of the Assessor to ensure that accurate attendance records are kept for each employee
- Managers and supervisors will receive appropriate training, guidance and support to manage attendance
- Employees will be aware of and exercise their responsibilities in the event of absence from work. Employees will be made aware of these responsibilities at induction and the Employee Review and Development programme

- All partners support the use of data monitoring to review and manage levels of absence
- All partners recognise the importance of non-discriminatory practices.

Procedure

Where sickness absence is genuine, and requires to be managed formally, the following procedure at Appendix 1 will be used. Perceived non genuine absence and related misconduct will be managed under the Disciplinary Procedure.

Guidance

Guidance, information and tools will be developed and maintained through the Board's Personnel Adviser. In relation to attendance management this guidance will:

- Inform employees what to do in the event of absence
- Provide employees with clear information on the issue of remuneration during sickness absence
- Guide management action in the event of absence including training/briefing
- Advise on the procedures to be followed in the event of medical examination
- Ensure accurate recording and provision of information to assist the management of absence
- Address the management of unauthorised absence

Legislation

The development and application of this policy is guided by:

- Equality Act 2010
- Employment Rights Act 1996
- Working Time (Amendment) Regulations 2007 (SI 2007/2079)
- Statutory Sick Pay (Medical Evidence) (Amendment) Regulations 2010 (SI 2010/137)

Monitoring and review

To ensure that the policy is operated effectively and achieves its objectives. The department will be required to produce regular statistical returns and reports. Such audits will include the examination of absence rates and action taken to overcome absenteeism. In addition, the operation of the policy will be subject to review by the Assessor in conjunction with the Board's Personnel Adviser.

The Highland & Western Isles Valuation Joint Board Attendance Management Policy

Where sickness is genuine, and requires to be managed formally, the following procedure will be used.

First Attendance Review

The manager should meet formally with the employee. The employee should be informed of their right to be accompanied at this meeting.

The aim of the meeting is to review their attendance and where appropriate develop a plan to support improved attendance. This plan will include specific actions, targets and timescales.

Where appropriate the discussion should include consideration of referral to the Occupational Health Service, workplace adjustments or redeployment opportunities.

The manager should write to the employee summarising the discussion and setting out the improvement plan.

At the end of the review period the manager and employee should meet to review progress. Where targets have been achieved the procedure will end and the employee's attendance will continue to be monitored as normal.

Second Attendance Review

Where the first attendance review does not meet its aims the manager should meet formally with the employee. The employee should be informed of their right to be accompanied at this meeting.

The same procedure should be followed as during the first attendance review.

The manager should inform the employee that failure to improve attendance could lead to dismissal.

At the end of the review period the manager and employee should meet to review progress. Where targets have been achieved the procedure will end and the employee's attendance will continue to be monitored as normal.

Third Attendance Review

Where the second attendance review does not meet its aims the manager should meet formally with the employee. The employee should be informed of their right to be accompanied at this meeting.

The aim of the meeting is to review the actions that have been taken to date to improve the employee's attendance and to consider whether any further actions should be considered.

The employee will have an opportunity to raise any mitigating circumstances.

Based on review of progress made, and discussion at the meeting the manager will decide to approval final review period or recommend the dismissal of the employee.

The manager should write to the employee summarising their decision.

Attendance Hearing

The Assessor or Assistant Assessors should invite the employee to a hearing. The employee should be informed of their right to be accompanied at this hearing.

At the meeting the employee (or their representative) should be invited to state their opinion and views on their condition, likely return, and level of capability.

The manager should be invited to summarise the actions that have been taken to support the employee to improve their attendance. The manager should provide details of any advice provided by the Occupational Health Service.

The employee (or their representative) and the manager should be invited to discuss possible opportunities for redeployment.

The Assessor or Assistant Assessors should ask any questions of the employee and manager required to reach a decision.

Following the hearing the Assessor or Assistant Assessors will decide whether to accept the manager's recommendation to dismiss on grounds of capability. Where the Assessor or Assistant Assessors agrees to dismiss the employee they will do so in person, stating the reason for dismissal. They will also summarise this in a letter to the employee making them aware of their right to appeal.

Appeals Hearing

Employees have a right to appeal against dismissal. The appeal should be submitted in writing to the Assessor within 10 working days of receipt of the letter.

Appeals will be considered by the Board and the appeal will end at this level within the Board.
