

Keep noise down
- for example, from
your generators.
This stops nuisance.

Respect the rights,
and way of life,
of others who
use the land.

The Highland Council can give you:

- advice about, and help with, accessing services (such as health or education);
- advice on how to have good relations with nearby communities & the land-owner;
- help to get rid of your household waste responsibly;
- advice on how to deal with your trade (commercial) waste;
- advice on accommodation – and sites with services set up for Gypsy / Travellers; and
- information on how we will manage any issues. Our Gypsy / Traveller Camps Policy also sets this out. You can ask for a copy or find it online at: www.highland.gov.uk/gypsytravellerspolicy

www.highland.gov.uk/gypsytravellers

We will be a 'go-between' e.g. between your camp and others who live nearby.

To do this, we will:

- regularly visit and make contact with you;
- tell you about concerns, and work with you to find ways to make things better;
- respect confidentiality. We and our partners will only share information appropriately and in line with our Policy. We will not share personal data.

If possible, let us know when you arrive to camp (if you don't have the landowner's permission already).
This will help us
provide services
you may need.

Leave the area clean
- and as you found it.

We ask everyone in the Highlands to act responsibly and respectfully. This leaflet sets out what is expected of people visiting and camping here; and also how we will help.

We, The Highland Council, respect Gypsy / Travellers' right to a travelling lifestyle, moving and camping across the Highlands. We work hard to get a good balance between this and the needs of settled communities. We will help to make sure that Gypsy / Travellers are not discriminated against, and will support good relations between different communities.

We ask and expect visitors to:

Respect, and help to look after, the land that the camp is on.

Show respect to others who live nearby - including their peace of mind (for example, don't act in ways that might annoy or alarm others).

Work positively with us.

Leave no mess, and get rid of your household rubbish helpfully. Use the local recycling centres or make it easy for our staff to collect your rubbish bags (e.g. leave them at the road side).

Get rid of your animal and human waste safely and responsibly (e.g. nappies).

Do not 'fly-tip' your rubbish - get rid of commercial waste at landfill sites or recycling centres.

Take responsibility for your own actions - be aware of dangers.

Prevent 'out-of-control' fires by not having fires.

Keep pets quiet and under control.

Keep groups small - avoid having too many vehicles in one place.
