Thurso Community Development Trust

At Caithness Voluntary Group we work closely with the Trust and have been so impressed with the work that they have been doing since they formed.

In the last ten months Thurso Community Development Trust have played a very prominent role in the resilience effort during the Covid – 19 pandemic and done a tremendous job safely organising a team of volunteers to support the most vulnerable in the community. The team have played a leading role developing training and procedures and have readily shared that good practice with other groups throughout the county.

The Pandemic has really highlighted the inequalities faced by many within our community and the Trusts efforts to develop the greenhouse complex that can then act as a training facility for disadvantaged people and generate income is a really worthwhile project which will make a difference in Caithness
