Police probe after quarry disturbance

🕒 2 December 2018

A dozen police officers, paramedics and a dog unit have been involved in an investigation near a quarry by Inverness.

The alarm was raised at 05:10 when a member of the public called the emergency services reporting a disturbance at the old Torvean quarry.

Police have said there was no search of the quarry and no weapons were involved and the incident was contained by mid morning.

Hi everyone just wanted to say that you doing a great job in this town!!! I wish I had more spare time to go with you one day but fingers crossed that I will find the time soon because I would love to help!

The area I think is the whorst when it comes to litter is the Torvean Quarry 🗑️😞 it's not just the fly tipping done by the travelers but lots of rubbish everywhere and old tents rotting away from previous occupiers it's just a horrible mess and the council doesn't do anything about it...I made a reports with photos of illegal dumping and two years later the same staff is still there 😡 any ideas or possible plans to tidy this place? Of course I am volunteering to come too 🙋❤️🐾
