

Sustainable School Building Study

Quote from Sam Foster, GAIA Architects; Well we did two very simple things to save energy, we put in as much insulation as the client, Highland Council, could possibly afford to because the building is so well insulated and so airtight, so few drafts that the heat that comes off the people like you, the school children when they come into the building in the morning is enough to actually heat the classroom.

Quote from Pupil; Climate change is one of the biggest challenges of our time, we think it's important to protect the environment and nature for now and for the future. With the help of Highland Council and others we now have a fantastic eco-school and everyone working together to cut carbon and the other resources we use.
