

The new development allows the old stone built school circa 1900 to live on without losing too much of its original prowess.

A new main classroom block was added with full kitchen facilities to take pressure off the original building and meet the increasing school roll.

With the use of larch cladding the low level extension sits well against the existing palate of material and backdrop. In turn the original less useful school spaces have been freed up for admin, library and staff meetings etc.

Bun-sgoil Fàrr - Leudachadh Farr Primary School - Extension