Report By: Assistant Chief Executive - People

1. Purpose/Executive Summary

- 1.1 The Delivery Plan 2024–27 consists of 64 projects and programmes overseen by six Portfolio Boards. Each project follows the agreed Portfolio Reporting Cycle, with updates submitted to the appropriate committee. In exceptional cases, standalone reports may be presented directly to committee or Council, and this report highlights any alternative reporting arrangements where relevant.

This report provides an update on the Early Learning and Childcare (ELC) project, covering financial performance, risk, and overall progress. Its purpose is to support effective Member scrutiny, inform decision-making and continuous improvement, and ensure transparent and accessible reporting.

- 1.2 The project seeks to develop flexible and sustainable ELC solutions, working collaboratively across the 'Workforce for the Future' and 'Reconfiguring our Asset Base' portfolios and in alignment with programmes such as the Highland Investment Plan (HIP), the Addressing Depopulation Action Plan (ADAP), and the Highland Outcome Improvement Plan (HOIP). A place based approach underpins this work.-based approach underpins this work.
- 1.3 A key outcome for rural and island communities is the development of sustainable ELC models that meet local needs, including provision for children under three and school age childcare across the full year. This is likely to involve new delivery models, such as supported childminding.-age childcare across the full year. This is likely to involve new delivery models, such as supported childminding.

- 4.3 This is a monitoring and therefore an impact assessment is not required.

5. Background

5.1 Childcare provision contributes to national and local outcomes relating to children and young people, health, education, and poverty, consistent with Scottish Government policy set out in Best Start: Strategic Early Learning and School Age Childcare Plan for Scotland 2022–26.

5.2 This project forms part of the Person-Centred Solutions Portfolio within the Capacity Building workstream. It aims to design sustainable and innovative ELC solutions, considering statutory funded ELC (1140 hours) alongside wider childcare needs including:

- provision for babies
- extended hours and holiday provision
- school-age childcare across Highland

This activity aligns with established Early Years team responsibilities. The project strengthens governance, cross-portfolio alignment, partnership working, and pace of delivery. Actions outlined in the report will progress following confirmation of enrolment figures.

5.3 The ambition is to design and pilot flexible, high-quality and sustainable models of ELC delivery in collaboration with PVI partners, particularly for remote and rural communities. Families expect continuity of provision alongside improved flexibility and choice, at a time of falling rolls and increasing financial constraints. The goal is to meet community need while ensuring efficient and sustainable delivery. -quality and sustainable models of ELC delivery in collaboration with PVI partners, particularly for remote and rural communities. 5.4 This work is being undertaken in the wider context of:

- declining school rolls
- rising parental expectations regarding childcare flexibility and choice
- financial pressures and requirements for efficiencies
- increased scrutiny and regulatory expectations from the Care Inspectorate and Education Scotland

In parallel, Audit and Risk colleagues are undertaking an audit of relevant processes and procedures. The outcome of which will be recommendations to support improvement in this area.

The progress that has been made against these two milestones will result in a request to the next Portfolio Board to amend the milestone dates and move the status from red to green. These two aspects will be kept under close scrutiny to ensure there is no further slippage.

7. Progress

7.1 Single Care Model (SCM)

Work is progressing on the development of a Single Care Model (SCM) designed to recognise and respond to the unique circumstances of rural and island communities. The SCM aims to deliver integrated, place-based care solutions that support both service users and community sustainability, while contributing to efforts to mitigate ongoing depopulation trends. Quality and safety remain central principles underpinning all aspects of this work.

Initial communities have been identified, and engagement has begun to explore local care needs and how the SCM could address them. The early phase is currently being led by the Chief Executive of CALA, although it is recognised that additional capacity is required to support robust development and implementation. The development of the local steering group to help shape the proposal, engage with communities and partners and well as recruiting the project manager.

Child Poverty Action Fund funding has been approved to support this work.

7.2 Supported Childminding

Collaboration with the Scottish Childminding Association (SCMA), supported by the Employability Service, continues to promote childminding recruitment across Highland, with a particular focus on supporting rural and island areas where provision is fragile or absent.

Support from communities, employability team and others to facilitate a marketing campaign to demonstrate the opportunity to deliver a vital service in a local community securing sustainable employment.

7.3 Key locality-based activity includes:

- Ardnamurchan: Engagement through Work Clubs in Strontian and Acharacle is underway to promote childminding as a viable and supported local career pathway.
- Skye: A range of childcare models are being tested to grow the existing provision. Skye faces distinct challenges due to competition from other employment sectors. Work is focusing on incentivising new childminders and supporting the two current settings (Portree and Fàs Mòr) to maximise their capacity to deliver ELC and school age childcare.-age childcare.
- Brora & Golspie: Working with community groups to develop a sustainable school age childcare and wrap around childcare service that meets the needs of children and families.

7.4 Scottish Government Evidence and Policy Engagement

An evidence based regional report outlining the childcare accessibility challenges facing rural and island communities from an economic development perspective has been provided to Scottish Government. This includes an assessment of the feasibility, impact, and deliverability of proposed solutions.-based regional report outlining the childcare accessibility challenges facing rural and island communities from an economic development perspective

A roundtable of key partners will convene to review the HIE evidence report and agree practical recommendations for action. These recommendations will feed into strategic groups including the Convention of the Highlands and Islands and the Islands Strategic Group.

Highland will be working with Scottish Government to develop sustainable school age childcare services.

7.5 Summary of Scottish Government Budget Commitments

The Scottish Government has set out a range of funding commitments in relation to childcare and early Learning. It is not yet fully understood how much of the funding announced in the high level commitments will be coming through to the Council and/or partners to support delivery, and further details are also awaited on how some of the new initiatives are to be developed and implemented.

- Additional funding is being provided through the Local Government Settlement for paying the Real Living Wage within commissioned social care and childcare services.
- Employment and Childcare Access – additional funding for employability services to provide access to funded childcare for all three and four year olds, as well as eligible two year olds with the stated aim of helping parents to enter, sustain, and progress in employment.- and four-year-olds, as well as eligible two-year-olds
- Expansion of Wraparound Support
- National Rollout of Breakfast Provision by August 2027, including up to one hour of supervised early drop off at primary schools. -off at primary schools.

7.6 Partnership Work to Address Child Poverty and Employability

Child Poverty Action Group has had a Child Poverty Action Fund (CPAF) application approved. The proposal focuses on reducing child poverty by enabling parental employment through access to flexible and locally-appropriate childcare in two rural communities. The intention is to introduce innovative delivery models tailored to the unique needs of rural Highland families.

In addition, work is being undertaken with Work Life Highland to coordinate efforts across childcare and employability, ensuring an integrated approach that supports family wellbeing and workforce participation.

7.7 Strategic Alignment and Collaborative Delivery

Highland Council retains responsibility for delivering statutory 1140-hour childcare and for overseeing wider childcare and family support services. The Council's Delivery Plan 2024–2027 identifies the development of a Single Care Model as a key priority under its commitment to “increasing more effective childcare solutions for families across Highland.”

Highlands and Islands Enterprise (HIE) has identified childcare as critical infrastructure for economic sustainability. Their Rural Childcare Evidence Report, endorsed by the Highland Community Planning Partnership (CPP) and HIREP and submitted to Ministers in May 2025, highlights both the challenges facing rural areas and the innovative models that may address them. A formal response is awaited.

CALA, with over four decades of experience delivering and advocating for rural childcare services, remains a key delivery partner, alongside Urram (supporting care across West Ardnamurchan) and the Lochbroom and Ullapool Community Trust (LUCT), one of Scotland's community development trusts working to support long-term community resilience.

7.8 Supporting High Quality ELC Provision

Early Years Strategy has been developed to support quality improvement in ELC to ensure high-quality, inclusive, and sustainable early learning and childcare (ELC) provision across Highland, where every child thrives through play, relationships, and meaningful learning experiences. Provided in partnership between Local Authority and PVI partners.

7.9 Poverty and Childcare

Education and Childcare is a key theme of the Highland Poverty and Equality Commission which will assist in supporting our work towards improving childcare provision across the area. Strengthening local support, particularly in the early years, is central to reducing the impacts of poverty. ELC plays a significant role in reducing child poverty.

Local providers and communities play a vital role in ensuring that every child has access to highquality early education and health services, giving them the best possible start in life. We will work collaboratively with community, local and national partners, both within and beyond the public sector, to improve the accessibility, coordination and quality of services. This includes widening opportunities for children of all ages who require additional support, while recognising the significant long-term benefits of targeted early years interventions. -quality early education and health services, giving them the best possible start in life. We will work collaboratively with community, local and national partners, both within and beyond the public sector, to improve the accessibility, coordination and quality of services. This includes widening opportunities for children of all ages who require additional support, while recognising the significant long-term benefits of targeted early years interventions.

This work aligns with Scottish Government policy Tackling Child Poverty Delivery Plan 2022-26 Best Start Bright Futures

8. Next Steps

1. Following ELC enrolment, undertake follow up reviews for settings with five or fewer children. -up reviews for settings with five or fewer children.
2. Engage with Contracts and Procurement to determine processes for selecting and supporting PVI providers in new ELC settings.
3. Continue to work with communities, with a focus in Skye, Sutherland, Ardnamurchan, Brora and Golspie and Ullapool.
